

LOCAL NEWS.

THE MARKET, this morning, was tolerably well supplied with country produce. Beef, mutton and veal, best cuts, 25@30 cts. per lb. Vegetables more abundant, with a tendency to decline—but only a tendency. Kale 30 cts. per peck; parsnips 60 cts. per peck; lettuce 5 a 8 cts. per head; &c., &c. The Fish market was only liberally supplied with one kind of fish—yellow perch, and they were offered at 40 cts. per bunch. Butter and Eggs are lower. Butter, (roll) 40 cts.; Eggs 30 a 35 cts. per dozen.

The late gale is reported to have been very severe on the bay and in the Potomac river. The D. R. Martin (the Government mailboat, which left Washington on Thursday afternoon, for City Point) and a steam propeller, were, for a time, driven ashore near Marshias' Point. The smoke stack on the John Brooks was blown off as she passed the mouth of the Rappahannock river on the Chesapeake bay. Captain Layfield says it was the heaviest gale he was ever in on the bay. After the heaviest of the blow, the steamer River Queen, with President Lincoln on board, was seen proceeding down the river, uninjured.

FLOWERS, &c.—Mr. John Slater had at his stand in market this morning a fine display of flowers, in pots, of all varieties, and most of them very beautiful. We noticed too, on Mr. S's stand, very fine lettuce, and the first radishes we have seen this spring.

The dome of the Capitol in Washington is closed to visitors until further notice. The reason for this is that stairways by which the work is approached are now in progress of construction.

ROBBERY.—The money drawer of Dwelly & Petry's store, on King street, was robbed on Thursday of about $50, by a boy—one of the "forty thieves."

Several persons have been fined recently, in this place, for not having the requisite number of stamps on playing cards offered for sale; and for not affixing stamps to receipts, &c.

Roll butter is quoted in Baltimore, at 20 a 21 cts. N. Y. state 20 to 30 cts., as in quality, for Goshen butter in kegs.

A young man named Gates was killed in Washington on Thursday, during the gale, by a heavy window blind falling on him.

Gen. Butler is in Washington.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The news from Europe by the Australasian is simply interesting as indicating a feeling, in England in regard to the probability of a war with this country, growing out of the claims and counter-claims of the two Governments for damages inflicted, directly or indirectly, by the war.

It is asserted that the representative of the U. S. at Paris has addressed to the French Government a remonstrance in regard to the clandestine shipment of recruits on board the Rappahannock, a part of the crew of the Florida having been transferred to the Rappahannock recently.

In the British House of Commons the question was asked whether any demands for compensation for losses, occasioned by the Alabama and other Confederate vessels, had been made upon the British Government by that of the United States. Mr. Layard stated, in reply, that no demand of the kind had been made within the past six months, but that numerous claims for indemnity had been made by British subjects against the Government of the United States on account of transactions during the war, and had been forwarded to Washington.

The Confederate steamer Shenandoah is reported to have destroyed eleven American merchantmen in the Indian Ocean. When she was last heard from she was at Melbourne, Australia, refitting and provisioning preparatory to resuming her cruise.

NAPOLEON III AND THE JEWS.—Are we to see a new crusade? The London Athenæum queries whether Napoleon's appetizing sketch of the ancient opulence of Asia Minor, and his "very natural wish" to see the East born again to life and civilization, may not indicate a new visit of the zouaves on their return from Mexico, to Syria and the Libanus. The first Napoleon while a dreaming sub lieutenant, one day startled Bourrienne by suddenly proclaiming his desire to make himself King of Jerusalem; and he never ceased to declare that the East was the only worthy stuff of empire. Does the nephew inherit this among other Napoleonic ideas?

It has been shrewdly given as a reason for the Emperor's appearance as an author, that he is anxious to have himself judged on his own merits; and that, having silenced by law all dangerous discussion of the acts of his government, he boldly puts his own thoughts and ideas in politics forward under his own name, that the world may learn how much wiser and more liberal the Emperor is than the Emperor's ministers; and who can say that the reoccupation of the Holy Land and the final absorption of the Jewish race with the dissipation of all its millennial visions, may not be the crowning work of the modern Augustus, who has already humbled Russia dismembered Austria, reconstituted Mexico, conquered Cochinchina, and interfered in the dominion of the Pope.—N.
